1 PROCEEDINGS 2 (10:04 a.m.) 3 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: We'll hear argument 4 first today in Case 11-982, Already, LLC, d/b/a YUMS v. 5 Nike. 6 Mr. Dabney. 7 ORAL ARGUMENT OF JAMES W. DABNEY ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER 8 9 MR. DABNEY: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the Court: 10 11 The Article III question in this case turns 12 on resolution of two issues: First, whether loss of 13 freedom to operate on the part of a direct competitor qualifies as Article III injury in fact; and, second, 14 what party bears the burden of proof of facts that are 15 16 contended by it to render a claim moot. 17 The counterclaim in this case seeks to extinguish a source of cost, risk, and official 18 restraint on what footwear products the Petitioner can 19 and cannot legally sell. These are classic forms of 20 21 injury in fact. 22 On the burden of proof point, the proponent 23 of a factual contention always bears the burden of 24 proving this, and this is especially true when the question arises in the context of a claim that a 25 voluntary act has allegedly ousted a Federal court of jurisdiction.

3 Mootness doctrine protects a party seeking 4 relief from the kind of evasive maneuvering that's 5 happened in this case.

JUSTICE KENNEDY: If -- if I were to write an -- an opinion indicating that there's a chill here because distributors and retailers will see that there's been this suit against the -- your client and they will be reluctant to distribute, would there -- would I just make that up? Or is there something I can read to find out -- to find that out, or --

MR. DABNEY: Injury in fact is a question offact, and injury in fact is based on evidence.

JUSTICE KENNEDY: Well, the -- the evidence here was that they did need investors, and investors were reluctant.

18 MR. DABNEY: That's correct.

19 JUSTICE KENNEDY: It wasn't specific

20 evidence, but then I -- anything besides that?

21 MR. DABNEY: There are three forms of injury 22 in this case. The first is that the Petitioner's cost 23 of operation is increased because the disputed claim was 24 not expunged. When the Petitioner designs and sells new 25 products, it has to go through an incredibly costly

1 process to determine whether or not its next line of shoes might give rise to a plausible claim --2 3 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Okay. Is that -- is that 4 in the record? 5 MR. DABNEY: It certainly is. The б Petitioner says, through its president, on page 173 of 7 the Joint Appendix, that he's engaged in new --8 development of new shoe lines, which by definition are 9 outside the scope of the covenant document. 10 JUSTICE KENNEDY: When you said it's 11 incredibly costly to do this and so forth, is that in 12 the record? 13 MR. DABNEY: That specific statement is not 14 in the record. JUSTICE KENNEDY: I mean, it makes sense, 15 16 but I -- I'm a little reluctant to take judicial notice 17 of the shoe business. I mean --18 MR. DABNEY: Your Honor, I'm glad you brought that up because, under the mootness doctrine, 19 20 the burden of proof on that and every other fact 21 relevant to mootness fell on the Respondent. Under this 22 Court's precedents, the Respondent in this case, in 23 order to oust the district court of jurisdiction, had to 24 show two things to a high degree of probability. The first thing the Respondent had to show is that it was 25 absolutely clear that the Petitioner could not reasonably be expected to bring --

3 JUSTICE BREYER: You're right, that's the 4 standard. And so you said that -- I mean, I feel 5 perhaps more calmly about this than I might feel is б warranted, but the -- the question is, is there anything 7 here that you -- so you said, by definition, we're going to produce some new shoes, which new shoes are not -- do 8 9 not have the appearance of any current and/or previous footwear product designs and any colorable imitations 10 11 thereof.

12 So I would like you to refer me to the 13 record where your president of your client or somebody 14 else says, we are intending to produce some new shoes that fall outside that definition, and of course, I will 15 16 look at that, because your opponent says we can find no 17 reasonable likelihood that they are going to produce anything or they have any present intent of showing --18 19 of producing something that falls outside that definition. 20 21 But now, you just said, oh, no, we're 22 definitely going to. So just refer me to those pages in 23 the record that shows that because, of course, you win, 24 if that's true.

25 MR. DABNEY: Page 173A of the record, of the 6

Joint Appendix, states that, "The Petitioner is" intending -- "is regularly engaged in the design of new footwear."

JUSTICE BREYER: Yes, but that isn't the 4 5 point. The point is, is the new footwear that you're б designing footwear that is not -- does not have the 7 appearance of any current or previous footwear product 8 designs or any colorable imitation thereof? And so to 9 say you are in the business of producing new footwear, 10 at least, to me, suggests nothing because the question 11 is what the footwear looks like, not that you're 12 producing new footwear.

MR. DABNEY: Your Honor, in the real world, a business competitor --

JUSTICE BREYER: No, I'm not interested in the real world. I am interested in the record.

MR. DABNEY: The record does not show that the Petitioner lacks any concrete interest in entering the line of commerce that --

JUSTICE BREYER: And does it show anything at all in respect that would support the claim that you are going to produce new footwear that doesn't either resemble, nor is a colorable imitation of anything that you have previously produced or is the subject of the case?

1	MR. DABNEY: Your Honor, what the record
2	shows and it is what it is is that the petitioner
3	is actively engaged in designing and bringing out new
4	footwear products and
5	JUSTICE BREYER: Period?
б	MR. DABNEY: Period.
7	JUSTICE BREYER: Okay. So I take it that
8	this case really boils down to should you have should
9	they have or you both have another chance to say what
10	the new footwear will be look like under a new
11	standard, or is there enough here already to say, well,
12	really, the judges could conclude that there is no real
13	likelihood that you're going to produce something that
14	won't look like what's already been produced.
15	MR. DABNEY: We would respectfully submit
16	that, when you apply the mootness doctrine, since we're
17	not talking about picking a fight here, we're talking
18	about someone who was sued once once bitten, twice
19	shy that when someone has been sued for alleged
20	infringement has asked for a judgment that would
21	eliminate any need to think about whether or not a new
22	shoe will attract
23	JUSTICE SCALIA: Yes, and I assume that was
24	your point, that you shouldn't be put through the
25	trouble of figuring out whether the new shoes that you $8$

1	produce are close enough to the old one to be covered or
2	are not. You're at risk
3	MR. DABNEY: Exactly.
4	JUSTICE SCALIA: right?
5	MR. DABNEY: Exactly.
6	JUSTICE KENNEDY: And I would think that you
7	would add this as well, that, for a competitor to demand
8	that the other competitor tell its plans, its marketing,
9	is, to say the least, patronizing, and and probably
10	quite injurious, in and of itself.
11	MR. DABNEY: That would itself be
12	JUSTICE KENNEDY: But, again, there's do
13	I just know that because I'm a judge? Or is there
14	someplace I can look for that?
15	MR. DABNEY: The law is that, as I stand
16	here today, the government has registered a claim that
17	the Petitioner is duty-bound not to bring out the shoe
18	shown in the registration, number one, which according
19	to the Respondent is one of the best selling, most
20	profitable shoe styles of all time; and also, as I stand
21	here today, the law is that Petitioner is at risk if it
22	brings out a shoe that is going to be giving rise to a
23	plausible claim
24	JUSTICE GINSBURG: But, Mr. Dabney, are you
25	saying that this device of the unilateral covenant is no 9

1 good, unless it says that you will never be sued for any shoe that you ever produce? Is -- are you saying that 2 3 the covenant is no good or that this covenant is 4 deficient? 5 MR. DABNEY: I'm saying that the Respondent б bore the burden of proving that the covenant completely 7 and irrevocably eradicated all of that. 8 JUSTICE GINSBURG: So -- if -- if you are 9 uneasy about the covenant as it exists, why didn't you 10 say, judge, this covenant doesn't give us adequate 11 protection, it should be amended, and then say what you 12 think you need to be adequately covered? MR. DABNEY: Because the Petitioner asks for 13 judgment in accordance with law, and it would prefer not 14 to be the involuntary licensee of the Respondent that 15 16 sued it. JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Well, does that mean 17 that, if they gave you a covenant that said, vis-à-vis 18 19 your company, our trademark, the form of this shoe, is 20 invalid, we won't sue you for anything, either an exact 21 duplicate or any colorable imitation thereof with 22 respect to this design; would that be enough for you?

24 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I know you want to help 25 everybody else --

10

MR. DABNEY: Your Honor, again --

	Official - Subject to Final Review
1	MR. DABNEY: Not no
2	JUDGE SOTOMAYOR: but why wouldn't that
3	be
4	MR. DABNEY: That's that's not actually
5	right. The reason why 70 years ago, Learned Hand
6	created the metaphor, "the scarecrow patent." And the
7	reason scarecrows are effective is not because they are
8	likely to climb down from the pole, but because, from a
9	distance and being looked at quickly, the way people in
10	the marketplace have to react to official government
11	records of claims, they're deceptive. So
12	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: You get a lot of
13	what this extra stuff you know, that you say, well,
14	even if this is all right, they're not going to sue me
15	for that, there's all the collateral damage. You get a
16	significant amount of that by the covenant not to sue.
17	Nike can't go around giving out these covenants left and
18	right because, if they do, they will undermine their own

19 trademark.

MR. DABNEY: Your Honor, the -- the covenant 20 21 actually reasserts the allegation that these shoes infringe. The covenant does nothing more than purport 22 23 to waive --

CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Where does it --24 where does it do that? 25

11

1	MR. DABNEY: It says it right on the on
2	page I believe it is 96 of of the record, where it
3	says, in the second whereas, "the actions complained of
4	no longer infringe or dilute at a level sufficient to
5	warrant the substantial time and expense." I mean, it
6	libels
7	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Okay. So if you
8	take if that were taken out, is your case the same or
9	not?
10	MR. DABNEY: There would be one small little
11	less bit of injury in this case. That's
12	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, I guess maybe
13	this is the same question Justice Ginsburg was asking.
14	You're you're a lawyer in this area. You want to
15	write a covenant that will satisfy the fellow on the 16	other side, but what does it say? Can you do that? Or
17	do you have to say, the only way this case can be
18	rendered moot is if the trademark is totally
19	invalidated?
20	MR. DABNEY: When someone seeks
21	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: No, no, that's kind
22	of a yes or no answer. Can you write a covenant that
23	says something other than the trademark is totally
24	invalidated?
25	MR. DABNEY: No. 12

1	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: No.
2	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So
3	JUSTICE KAGAN: But why?
4	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: what you're saying is
5	you
б	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: So you're saying
7	that, in this case, there's no way I mean, I thought
8	it was a practice that was not unprecedented for parties
9	to grant covenants of this sort. You're saying this is
10	unheard of, nobody nobody can do this?
11	MR. DABNEY: The practice in this case dates
12	to 1995. This is a totally recent, controversial
13	practice that has never been embraced by this Court at
14	all. In fact, it was articulated in a case two years
15	after
16	JUSTICE KAGAN: But that's not the question,
17	Mr. Dabney. The question is: Is there any covenant
18	that exists in the world that would make you feel
19	secure? And I suppose I'm having a little bit of
20	difficulty with the answer, with an answer that says,
21	no, there is no covenant that you can write that would
22	make us feel secure.
23	MR. DABNEY: The the reason is, Your
24	Honor, that the registration causes informational
25	injury. And what the Respondent is trying to do is to 13
	Alderson Penerting Company

hang on to government action that disadvantages its competitor, while --

JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: But I don't know why --3 4 but my solution was that they would give you a covenant 5 that I suggested as a possibility that would say, б vis-à-vis you, you can imitate, counterfeit, use this 7 design, only vis-à-vis you. Why doesn't that protect 8 you fully? Because what they're saying to you is, copy 9 the design if you want, so long as you're not using another trademark. But that's not the issue. The issue 10 11 is whether you're infringing this design.

MR. DABNEY: The question the trademark practitioners get asked every day is whether something is available. And so long as that question is asked, a covenant that's in the file of a company is not going to prevent deception and confusion of people who look and say, oh, this is a protected design.

JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Dabney, that's a different answer than the one you gave me when I asked the same question. You said because we don't want to be an involuntary licensee of Nike.

22 MR. DABNEY: That is a second form of injury 23 that we have now, as Justice Scalia pointed out. Right 24 now, we cannot just ignore the claim and bring out 25 either this -- a YUMS version --

1	JUSTICE GINSBURG: But can you can you
2	just explain to me you've given a name to this carte
3	blanche that that Nike would give you. What is the
4	significance of your being an involuntary licensee?
5	It's not something that that you wear as a brand. I
6	mean
7	MR. DABNEY: What we've substituted is
8	instead of getting a judgment in accordance with law
9	that expunges the allegedly invalid
10	government-registered claim of right to exclude
11	competition and sale of goods in favor of the chance to
12	litigate with our arch rival to see whether they will
13	prove
14	JUSTICE GINSBURG: Then you're going back to
15	saying the covenant no covenant is any good.
16	MR. DABNEY: A covenant that leaves the
17	covenantor in possession of the unreviewed government
18	benefit that it got
19	JUSTICE BREYER: I mean, maybe you could
20	suggest to me that I that we should change what the
21	law has been or not follow it here, but where I'm taking
22	the law from is Friends of the Earth.
23	MR. DABNEY: Yes.
24	JUSTICE BREYER: And in Friends of the
25	Earth, it says a defendant namely Nike claiming 15

1	its voluntary compliance moots a case, and what they're
2	claiming is that this a covenant moots the case,
3	moots the case, the covenant they gave, there's the
4	formidable burden you know, it's formidable, you're
5	quite right of showing it is absolutely clear,
6	correct, that the allegedly wrongful behavior, namely,
7	their suing, but their suing in respect to this kind of
8	shoe, could not reasonably be expected to recur.
9	And they say, since we promised in an
10	enforceable promise not to repeat this behavior ever
11	100 years, how could it be expected reasonably to recur?
12	How could our behavior, namely suing for infringement in
13	respect to a shoe like this, be reasonably expected to
14	recur, given our covenant? And your response to that
15	is?
16	MR. DABNEY: Because the claim the
17	counterclaim seeks to extinguish is not simply the
18	particular rights of action that they have covenanted
19	not to exert. The claim that is sought to be
20	extinguished is the much broader government-registered
21	claim of right to exclude competition in the sale of
22	shoes that embody that design.
23	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Mr. Dabney
24	MR. DABNEY: Yes.
25	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: if you had the 16

1 the various interests that you're asserting now -- we're 2 not talking about mootness, but we're talking about 3 Article III standing.

4 MR. DABNEY: Yes.

5 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: I'm looking at what б you're alleging, that you have plans to introduce 7 particular shoes. People are considering investing in your company. Your opponent has intimidated retailers. 8 9 If you brought a suit by yourself, is that sufficient to 10 establish Article III standings? Are those the sort of 11 concrete and tangible injuries that we've required? 12 MR. DABNEY: I would say we have very 13 distinct and concrete and palpable injury in that --14 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Just because you 15 plan to introduce a particular line of shoes, you can 16 bring a lawsuit? 17 MR. DABNEY: No.

18 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: No. Okay. Just 19 because people are considering investing -- somebody who 20 came in and said, I've got this company, people are 21 thinking of investing in it, and therefore, you want to 22 proceed with your lawsuit?

23 MR. DABNEY: It is undeniable, by law, that 24 the Petitioner's cost of operation -- the petitioner's 25 Risk of operation is increased because of --17

1	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, that surely
2	would not establish Article III standings. Everybody's
3	cost of operation is increased whenever there's any
4	trademark at all because you have to check and see
5	whether it violates a trademark.
6	MR. DABNEY: Yes, but we're a direct
7	competitor, which we say is currently subject to an
8	unlawful restraint on our freedom to operate.
9	JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Dabney, suppose there
10	had been no infringement claim, could you have but
11	you're in the shoe business and you're you're
12	worried could you have brought a declaratory action
13	or an action for an injunction to have the trademark
14	declared invalid?
15	MR. DABNEY: When our shoes were launched,
16	it obviously never even occurred to the petitioner that
17	they could be deemed an infringement of any rights of
18	this respondent. So the answer is we were not injured
19	at that point. But now, that we've been sued once
20	bitten, twice shy we now have been told by the
21	respondent that it claims a far-reaching claim of right
22	to exclude competition in the sale of goods.
23	JUSTICE GINSBURG: So you say you could not
24	have brought a suit to to cancel?
25	MR. DABNEY: The three-part test of 18

1 injury-in-fact is universally applicable. So we did not allege -- and I don't believe we had injury-in-fact when 2 3 our shoes were launched. So, no, of course, there would 4 not have been a suit that could be brought at that time. 5 But since we're in a mootness case and we've been sued б and we've been told and have all these defamatory 7 allegations about and dragged our company's name through 8 the mud, the situation is different, as Your Honor has 9 said.

JUSTICE KAGAN: But if that's the case -- if the difference is that you've been sued, then it should be adequate protection, if you know that you won't be sued again. And that's why there's the question of what kind of covenant would give you adequate protection that you won't be sued again?

MR. DABNEY: If the -- as I said before, if the only injury we were complaining about and trying to extinguish was the injury that flows from being sued again by this Respondent, then I suppose you could -you could conceive of a covenant that would extinguish that injury.

But in trademark registration practice, it has been routinely heard by Federal courts -- we cite two on page 8 of our reply brief -- that the kind of injury that Petitioner is complaining about in this case 19

1 has been heard and adjudicated by Federal courts for 2 decades. We cite two cases, 85 years apart. It is --3 JUSTICE GINSBURG: But, Mr. Dabney, you told 4 me that you could not bring such an independent suit, 5 you have to be stung once. So you can bring it as a б counterclaim, as you did here, once there's an 7 infringement suit, but you -- you did say that you could not just walk into court and say, I want an injunction 8 9 invalidating the trademark. MR. DABNEY: Well, let me clarify. The 10 11 Petitioner totally agrees there has to be injury in fact 12 in all cases. And so my answer to your question in this 13 hypothetical question is we would have to allege adequate injury. And the -- the Chief Justice suggested 14 15 that increased cost of capital might or might not 16 qualify for injury in the -- in the initial standing 17 case where --18 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: No, I suggest it 19 might not. 20 MR. DABNEY: Might not. That's right. 21 (Laughter.) 22 MR. DABNEY: So we have increased cost of 23 capital, increased costs of -- of design. And, of 24 course, we have the legal burden and duty to refrain from making shoes now that would give rise to a 25 20

1	plausible claim on the part of the Respondent.
2	If there are no further questions, I would
3	like to reserve the rest of my time.
4	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel.
5	Ms. Anders.
б	ORAL ARGUMENT OF GINGER D. ANDERS,
7	FOR UNITED STATES, AS AMICUS CURIAE,
8	SUPPORTING VACATUR AND REMAND
9	MS. ANDERS: Mr. Chief Justice, and may it
10	please the Court:
11	A trademark holder can moot a declaratory
12	judgment action seeking to invalidate a trademark by
13	offering the plaintiff a sufficiently broad covenant not
14	to sue. Whether the covenant eliminates the controversy
15	between the parties should be analyzed under the
16	voluntary cessation doctrine.
17	The analysis that the government is
18	proposing is both a way of determining whether the
19	covenant has eliminated any concrete dispute between the
20	parties and also a framework for the parties to use to
21	negotiate the appropriate scope of the covenant.
22	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Ms. Anders, what
23	there is a question about why a competitor should have
24	to produce to its competition its future plans of
25	development. I mean, the marketplace, especially in 21

1 fashion, importantly, likes to keep quiet what it's 2 doing because what -- it doesn't want other imitators to 3 beat it to the punch.

4 So given that interest, why isn't their 5 claim that they're being inhibited because of the 6 requirement to produce their products -- or their 7 intended products -- enough to establish injury in this 8 case?

MS. ANDERS: Well, once the -- once the 9 defendant offers the covenant, then the question becomes 10 11 whether there is anything that the plaintiff is 12 intending to do, its current activities or its -- its 13 concrete plans for anticipated activities that would 14 fall outside the covenant and potentially be infringing. Because if those activities exist, then the covenant has 15 16 not --

17 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Well, then what did --18 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Could we say there is just 19 a presumption, that, if you're in the business, that you 20 probably are interested in future design, period? 21 MS. ANDERS: I don't think that -- I don't 22 think that presumption would establish a concrete 23 interest. The question here is whether --JUSTICE KENNEDY: Wouldn't establish a --24 It would not establish that the 25 MS. ANDERS:

plaintiff has a concrete interest. The question is whether the dispute between the parties is reasonably likely to recur. And if the plaintiff cannot point to anything that it's currently doing or that it's planning to do --

б JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I read this affidavit as 7 saying, we're in the shoe industry, we're going to make new shoes regularly, we want to copy their shoe, we 8 9 don't think it's protected by trademark, we want to copy 10 it -- they don't say -- and that's something on rebuttal 11 that maybe Petitioner will explain -- that we want to 12 copy it exactly. But what they're saying is, we want to 13 copy it because it's a free form. That's really what I 14 read their affidavit as saying.

15 So if -- why do they have to actually -- do 16 they have to produce their design to prove they're doing 17 that?

MS. ANDERS: I think what they have to do is they have to state that they intend to make products that may be outside the covenant. And now --

JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: But saying it is enough? That's what I thought their affidavit said, and I thought the court below said, no, you've got to show us the product.

MS. ANDERS: I think the -- the affidavit 23

1 says that they intend to produce new shoes as a general 2 matter. It doesn't tell us what those shoes may be, 3 whether they -- it doesn't give us a way of knowing 4 whether they might fall outside the covenant. 5 And I -б JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Please, now go back to 7 my question. Is it enough to just say it? Or do they have to produce the designs, so that the Court and Nike 8 9 can decide -- it is Nike, right? -- the Court and Nike can decide whether the shoe is a colorable imitation or 10 11 an exact copy. 12 MS. ANDERS: I think that could depend on 13 the breadth of the covenant. I think, in some cases, 14 for instance, if the covenant doesn't cover any future 15 products, it may be enough for the plaintiff to credibly 16 allege, we intend to make future products that aren't 17 covered. 18 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I agree with you. MS. ANDERS: So I also think that it may 19 20 depend -- the less far along a party's plans are to make its shoes, the easier it will be for the defendant to 21 22 say, it is speculative that your plans will actually 23 mature into something that doesn't --24 going to say anything particular. We're just going to say that we're in the business of making shoes, and we might make a shoe. Would that -- would that -- that would not be enough under your standard; is that correct?

JUSTICE KAGAN: Well, Ms. Anders, take this case, where Already says -- you know, we're not really 24

б MS. ANDERS: I think that's right. I think 7 if the parties went back on remand in this case -- and 8 we do think there should be a remand here -- but if the 9 parties went back and we had the exact same facts, and Nike said that anything that was a colorable imitation 10 11 of Already's shoes was covered by the covenant, and 12 Already came back and said, just generally, we're making 13 new shoes, I think, in that situation, it would be 14 relatively easy for Nike to show that the possibility 15 that Already would be impacted by the covenant -- or impacted by the trademark, I'm sorry -- would be 16 17 speculative.

18 So that --

JUSTICE KAGAN: Given what Already has said in this case, why is it that you think that we should remand? I mean, it sounds as though we're remanding for no purpose, given what Already has said throughout the course of the litigation and, indeed, in this Court today.

MS. ANDERS: I think there are two reasons. 25

1 The first is that, when this Court establishes a new 2 standard, it often -- it traditionally will remand to 3 allow the courts -- the lower courts to apply that 4 standard in the first instance.

And the second is that there was some 5 б uncertainty about what the covenant meant below. So 7 Nike represented that the covenant covered the existing shoes, and Already said, in its motion to dismiss 8 9 briefing, that it thought that the covenant did not --JUSTICE KENNEDY: But its future -- its 10 11 future shoes are clearly -- and I thought the counsel 12 for the Petitioner might have -- might have added this 13 in his answer to Justice Sotomayor, that its future shoes are not covered by this. And the -- if -- if Nike 14 has the heavy burden of proof, can it have discovery and 15 16 take depositions on what their plans are, what their 17 marketing plans are, what designs they're thinking 18 about?

MS. ANDERS: I think that would be one way for Nike to try to establish that -- that the dispute is not reasonably likely to recur. It could get discovery into --

JUSTICE KENNEDY: So then -- so then the covenant not to sue gives Nike an advantage that no other manufacturer has.

26

1 MS. ANDERS: I don't think it does give 2 the --3 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Do you mean any 4 manufacturer without -- without any litigation can ask 5 Already, well, tell us your plans, what shoes are you б thinking about? 7 MS. ANDERS: Well, once Already produces -once Already identifies what its future activities may 8 9 be -- and, again --10 JUSTICE KENNEDY: But why should Already 11 have to do that to anybody? 12 MS. ANDERS: Well, we think it makes sense 13 for Already to have to -- have to at least identify here 14 what activities it thinks may not be outside the 15 covenant. And I don't think that hurts Already, and the 16 reason is that if -- if Already's evidence convinces the 17 court that the case isn't moot, then Already gets its adjudication on the related --18 19 JUSTICE KENNEDY: So Nike has an advantage 20 over Already that no other manufacturers had. It can demand what its future plans are. 21 22 MS. ANDERS: Well, it will get -- the 23 trademark will be -- will be adjudicated if -- if 24 Already convinces the Court the action isn't --25 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Let me just ask one 27 question on that, and it's a little bit off of what we've been talking about. You say, in your brief, well, now, don't worry, what you can do is you can go to the trademark -- the PTO board, and they'll -- they'll adjudicate this mark. And so -- you know, you can really go out of the courts and go to the administrators.

8 Suppose Already goes to the administrative 9 agency and loses. Can it have judicial review? And is there -- is standing easier to show, once there has been 10 11 an adverse action in the administrative office? Or are 12 we right back where we started? So once you go to the 13 agency and you try to appeal, the Court says, well, this is an Article III court, we need a case of controversy, 14 15 and you're right back where we are now?

MS. ANDERS: Well, a couple of points on that. The first is that we are not proposing that the Court should dismiss discretionarily every action just because the TTAB exists and can adjudicate --

JUSTICE KENNEDY: That was a big part of your argument. You were telling us, oh, don't worry, you can always go to the patent level.

23 MS. ANDERS: What we're proposing here is 24 that, as a function of the Court's broader discussion 25 under the Declaratory Judgment Act and United States v. 28

1 W. T. Grant, is that when the Court believes that it probably does -- does have jurisdiction but it doesn't 2 3 think that the likelihood of a dispute is -- is really 4 that great, that in that situation, it can discretionarily dismiss. 5 б So that would be a situation in which there 7 is Article III --8 JUSTICE KENNEDY: No. My -- my question is: 9 Is the Article III requirement that Already has the same in this case as it would be if they sought judicial 10 11 review from an adverse order of the administrative 12 agency? 13 MS. ANDERS: The administrative agency's 14 standing rules are broader than Article III, so it would -- it is easier to get --15 16 JUSTICE KENNEDY: I'm talking about going to 17 court. 18 MS. ANDERS: And so once it goes to court, there may be rare cases in which Already, as the party 19 20 that lost, if it isn't injured in fact by the TTAB's 21 decision itself, that it would not have the necessary 22 Article III injury to seek judicial review. That 23 hasn't -- to our knowledge, that has not occurred, but 24 it is possible that that could happen because 15 U.S.C. 1064 makes the TTAB standing requirements broader than 25 29

1 in Article III.

JUSTICE GINSBURG: Ms. Anders, you did say, 2 3 if I recall correctly, that Congress regarded the PTO as 4 the preferred form for cancellation proceedings. The --5 the statute sets up the PTO proceeding, but it also б allows the claim to be brought in -- in court. So 7 what -- what shows that Congress meant these claims to be -- to go to the agency in preference to the court? 8 9 MS. ANDERS: Well, I think Congress didn't 10 set it up as an exhaustion requirement, so I don't think 11 it's that Congress preferred for all of these claims to 12 go to the TTAB. But the TTAB is the expert body that --13 that adjudicates cancellation of validity issues all the So we think there could be circumstances in which 14 time. it would be particularly appropriate for a district 15 16 court to consider the existence of the TTAB proceeding. 17 For instance, if there's a related proceeding pending before the TTAB or there's a 18 concurrent proceeding, something like that, we think it 19 would make sense for the district court in considering 20 21 whether to dismiss the action to take that into account. 22 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: I thought your 23 answer to Justice Kennedy's question might be that 24 the -- an adverse decision from the agency covering you is an additional injury in fact that gives you Article 25 30

1	III standing, unless the unless the basis for the
2	agency's decision is you don't have any injury.
3	MS. ANDERS: I think there could be some
4	circumstances in which the TTAB's decision would create
5	injury in fact if it said something about the scope of б	the trademark, something like that. So there could be
7	situations in which 1071 would then allow the losing
8	party to get judicial review.
9	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel.
10	Mr. Goldstein.
11	ORAL ARGUMENT OF THOMAS C. GOLDSTEIN
12	ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT
13	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Mr. Chief Justice, thank you
14	very much, may it please the Court:
15	You will want to have available to you the
16	cert petition and the small volume of the Joint
17	Appendix.
18	In our submission, the Court needs to adopt
19	a rule that has balance to it, and that is there it
20	has to be possible to resolve one of these cases through
21	a covenant not to sue of appropriate breadth, but it
22	also has to be the case that a covenant not to sue can't
23	just always eliminate the other side's injury. And so
24	it's going to depend on the covenant and it's going to
25	depend on what the other side says about its plans. 31

1	And our point in this case is that you
2	should adopt the following rule: And that is, if you
3	have a covenant not to sue and it covers everything that
4	the other side alleges an intent to produce, then there
5	is no more injury. If it doesn't cover that, then there
б	may well be injury.
7	And our point
8	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: How do you deal with the
9	point that's been discussed with your adversary, they
10	have to show you everything they intend to produce?
11	What entitles you to that showing?
12	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Absolutely. So one thing
13	that's very important to recognize two things about
14	trademark practice. First is that, in all of these
15	cases remember, most of the time the question of
16	trademark or patent validity will just be a suit for
17	invalidity. It might be a counterclaim. This happens
18	all the time.
19	And in all of these cases, including this
20	case, there is a protective order, and there is one in
21	this case. And the protective order says that a party
22	can designate its material, so that it's lawyers' eyes
23	only, and so that no businessperson from the other side
24	is entitled to see it.
25	So that, Justice Kennedy, with respect, it's 32

1	actually not true that this is an unusual situation or
2	that we would get some special advantage.
3	In every single patent or trademark
4	invalidity case, after this Court's decision in
5	MedImmune, the party alleging invalidity, in order to
6	show its standing, has to say, we intend to make a
7	product that is regarded as potentially infringing.
8	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: What if they simply
9	said
10	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
11	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: you have the
12	trademark, we think it's invalid, we want to copy your
13	shoe? We want to copy just the form of your shoe
14	because that's what the trademark involves.
15	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
16	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: And once we have the
17	invalidity, that's what we're going to do.
18	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
19	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Would that be enough of
20	a showing? We don't have plans right now because your
21	trademark stopped us from having the plans, but the
22	minute your trademark is isn't validated, for sure,
23	we're going to do it because it's going to mean great
24	sales if we put our name on it, rather than your name.
25	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. The answer to your 33

question is going to be yes, but it has two parts to it.
The first is -- because I really want to focus on precisely what you said. You said first, what did they simply say?

5 Now, if they were to simply say it, there 6 could be a factual inquiry into whether they're telling 7 the truth or not. We could debate -- we could have a 8 fight about the actual evidence. But let's assume they 9 could prove it, and that is, the district judge was told 10 by Already, or whatever other competitor, we want to 11 make a counterfeit.

In that case, unquestionably -unquestionably -- there would be a continuing Article III injury. And let's then go to your understanding of what the declaration in this case actually says.

So, first, let me start with how the case came to you, and that is the court of appeals, what it understood the record -- and the district court understood the record to be, and that is going to be in the petition appendix at page --

JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Goldstein, how the case came to us -- how this case originated was a counterclaim.

24 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.

25 JUSTICE GINSBURG: And at the time the 34

1	counterclaim was asserted, there was certainly Article
2	III jurisdiction over the counterclaim, right?
3	MR. GOLDSTEIN: That's absolutely right.
4	And we accept, for present purposes, that there is going
5	to be a reduced requirement under the voluntary
б	cessation doctrine. We briefed why we don't think
7	that's true, but I assume, for the purposes of these
8	answers, that the Court is going to apply the heightened
9	burden on us to show that the case is over.
10	And we believe that we showed beyond that
11	we really resolved this case, when we didn't really
12	dismiss our claim with prejudice, but we affirmatively
13	granted them a covenant not to sue that covered not only
14	their existing products. But, Justice Kennedy, their
15	future products and I'm glad to take you to the
16	language of the covenant because they are the
17	colorable imitations of their current products.
18	JUSTICE KAGAN: Do you that this covenant
19	covers an exact copy of your shoe?
20	MR. GOLDSTEIN: It does not. And if the
21	other side had said, in the district court, we have an
22	intention and this is Justice Sotomayor's point we
23	have an intention, we have a desire to make a copy of
24	your shoe, then there would be a case or controversy.
25	And it's in 35

1 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Is -- is -- is the Petitioner -- do you anticipate that the Petitioner will 2 3 agree with you, that this covers future products? MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes, because although the 4 5 cert petition says that it doesn't, we have quite б stridently pointed out, in our briefing, that that was 7 completely inaccurate. And I'll just -- let's go to the covenant. I don't think this is really that hard or 8 9 that controversial. 10 So if we go to the Joint Appendix, at pages 11 96 to 97, and so -- and -- and I remind you that the --12 the question presented is -- is exactly what you're 13 saying, Justice Kennedy. I'll read it, so you don't have to turn back to the cert petition. 14 15 And its premise was that the registrant 16 promises not to assert its mark against the party's then 17 existing commercial activities. So now, I'm in the covenant itself, on page 97A, and this is what we 18 19 promised not to sue them about. We have -- we have promised not to sue them, 20 and I'm five lines down from the top, on account of any 21 22 possible action based on or involving trademark 23 infringement, unfair competition or dilution, under 24 state or Federal law, based on the appearance of Already's current -- okay, that's not future -- or 25 36

1 previous footwear product designs and any colorable imitations. And that's what -- and that's what --2 3 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: The colorful imitations -- colorable --4 5 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Colorable. 6 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: The colorable imitations 7 are colorable imitations of their shoe? 8 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That's exactly right. 9 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You haven't promised to not sue them over colorable imitations of your shoe? 10 11 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That are not colorable 12 imitations of --13 JUSTICE KENNEDY: But you have two 14 categories. You have current and previous, as to which the covenant runs to everything. Then you have what you 15 16 say is future, and that has to be a colorable imitation. 17 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That's exactly right. JUSTICE KENNEDY: So it -- so it -- so it 18 19 does cover some future designs. And they're correct 20 about that, and you're incorrect. 21 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Justice Kennedy, I -- I may 22 have confused things. This is the situation with the 23 covenant: Our covenant not to sue covers everything 24 they have made in the past, everything they were making at the time and every future product of theirs that is a 25 37

1 colorable imitation.

Our point is not that it covers every future shoe of theirs. We're on the same page in that respect. You are absolutely right, Justice Kennedy, that there are shoes that they could make in the future that would not be covered by the covenant. There could be an injury about that.

And so my point about the record in the case and how the case was developed and how we might have modified the covenant, if they had told us anything, suggesting -- suggested anything outside the covenant they might want to make, is let's look at what they actually told the district court and the court of appeals about what their intentions were.

JUSTICE GINSBURG: So it's -- so it's a question of -- of deficiency in their pleading. Suppose they amended that counterclaim and said, as soon as we are able, we want to do a counterfeit.

MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. It is not a deficiency in the pleading. It's a deficiency in the proof. So my point about this -- it's very important for the Court to understand that this case was not dismissed just on the pleadings. It wasn't just an insufficiency in their allegation.

And they said, well, actually, we have more 38

1 that we want to say, because we actually can explain to the courts that we want to make other shoes. 2 3 The case was decided on a fully developed record. We moved to dismiss. They submitted five 4 5 declarations in response that described their intentions б precisely. 7 JUSTICE KAGAN: But suppose in a different hypothetical case, they had said, what we want to do is 8 to copy Nike's shoes --9 10 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. 11 JUSTICE KAGAN: -- what then should have 12 happened then, in your view? 13 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Okay. So I do -- I would 14 love to return to what actually happened. But in that 15 hypothetical, what would happen is that our motion to 16 dismiss would be denied, unless and until we could prove 17 that what they were saying wasn't true because it is absolutely the case -- and it is a strong point in our 18 19 favor -- that you can't evade an attempt to invalidate 20 your trademark through a covenant not to sue because you 21 can't give a covenant not to sue over a counterfeit 22 because you are in real risk of being deemed to have abandoned the mark because you're just --23 24 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Why? Why? I know you said that in your brief, but if you give it -- yes, if 25 29

1 you -- if you say the -- the whole world can copy it, 2 but this covenant would give it to only one 3 manufacturer. 4 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That's correct. 5 JUSTICE GINSBURG: So why would you б abandon -- why would giving a covenant to Already amount 7 to abandonment of your mark? 8 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Okay. It is not a settled 9 question in the law. There is no case that has considered this question. What a party claiming 10 11 abandonment would say is that we would have licensed 12 Already then to increase its production and its 13 distribution. 14 But even if one didn't agree with that, Justice Ginsburg, my point would be this: And that is 15 16 you can't continually evade an attempt to invalidate 17 your mark because, certainly, the agree -- we would agree that if you give a second one of these things out 18 19 or the third one, you would be abandoning the mark. I 20 have some actual facts for you about this, and that --21 JUSTICE BREYER: What is it -- I would like 22 to know. I mean, I assume you ask them, do you have any 23 current or future plan to produce a shoe that would 24 violate our mark --25 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.

1	JUSTICE BREYER: or that might which
2	does not look at all like the present your present
3	shoe, and isn't even colorably like your present shoe,
4	do you have a plan to do such a thing, are you in the
5	process, is it likely?
6	And they say, no, it's not likely. That's
7	the end of it. They're just as if they manufactured
8	cell phones.
9	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
10	JUSTICE BREYER: But if they were to say
11	you know, we make new shoes all the time.
12	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
13	JUSTICE BREYER: And this is some kind of
14	thing we might well consider, and we have people working
15	on it; and they are considering whether to do it or not,
16	it's well in the works they win. Okay?
17	What did they say?
18	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Page 173 of the Joint
19	Appendix. They had every opportunity to describe
20	exactly what you wanted to know about, Justice Breyer.
21	We moved to dismiss the case
22	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I'm making this as
23	simple as I can.
24	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Okay.
25	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I'm a shoe manufacturer. 41

1	I want to make new designs, and I want to be free to
2	make the designs that I want.
3	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
4	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: If this mark isn't
5	validated
б	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
7	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I intend to copy as
8	much of it as I can.
9	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Sure.
10	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I don't have any records
11	of doing the planning because the trademark was there.
12	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Sure.
13	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: But, for sure, given my
14	current shoe
15	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
16	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: and the fact that
17	they thought I imitated them
18	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
19	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: meaning, you
20	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
21	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: you invalidate the
22	mark, I'm going to copy as much of it as I can.
23	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
24	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Would that be enough?
25	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. 42

1 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: In your mind, you're 2 saying --3 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes, that would be fine. JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You could do discovery 4 5 then? б MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. And, Justice 7 Sotomayor --8 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: And the discovery is 9 going to show what? 10 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Well --11 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: The president comes in 12 and says exactly what I said. There are no plans --13 MR. GOLDSTEIN: They're going to win. 14 They're going to win, Justice Sotomayor. And so for your vote, I am resting my entire case on the fact that 15 16 you're understanding that this is what their affidavit 17 suggests that's just not right. 18 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Counsel, could you go back to Justice Breyer's question and answer that? 19 20 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. Yes. So page 173 --21 because there is a record here. You -- you don't have 22 to hypothesize. This was all on the table in the 23 district court. We said, they have no intention, no 24 desire, no nothing, to make something that is not unambiguously covered by the covenant. 25 43

1	And Justice Ginsburg did point out, in
2	passing, that if they said something to the contrary, we
3	would have modified the covenant. So here's what they
4	said and I it would take a lot of your time for me
5	to read all seven paragraphs on page 173, but they б	don't
7	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Yes. You don't have to
8	read to us.
9	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Okay. So these paragraphs
10	do not say they do not suggest, they do not imply
11	even between the lines an intention to make something
12	that is outside the covenant. They just don't. And
13	that's
14	JUSTICE BREYER: What they say is that they
15	changed this at the rate of a mile a minute you know,
16	they have they have stuff they put out, and we have
17	the YUMS and the Sweet whatever it is and the Jelly
18	Bean and so forth, and we keep changing it.
19	And so I don't know. I mean, it doesn't
20	seem clear, one way or the other. If it is if I come
21	to that conclusion, is it the case I thought perhaps,
22	in looking at this, that the line I quoted remember,
23	which puts a lot of burden on you, from Friends of the
24	Earth is not quoted in the district court, not quoted
25	in the Court of Appeals, so perhaps the thing I think

1	the SG wants something like it.
2	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
3	JUSTICE BREYER: So you say, okay, this is
4	the standard; it's tough for Nike to show this. You
5	seem to have conducted this case without that standard
6	quite in mind. It's tough for Nike, but they can do
7	it you know, depending on the facts, and you have
8	these protective orders, da, da, da, so send it back,
9	use the right standard, and give Nike a chance and give
10	them a chance, and that way, we
11	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I thought what they were
12	arguing
13	JUSTICE BREYER: What about that? I would
14	like to know what the answer to that question is here.
15	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Okay. Do you want
16	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Answer
17	Justice Breyer's question.
18	JUSTICE BREYER: Excellent.
19	MR. GOLDSTEIN: All right. Justice Breyer,
20	so you've got a choice. You could let us win now, or
21	you could say, well, maybe you will win on remand.
22	JUSTICE BREYER: Well, that's your opinion,
23	that you will win on remand. Okay.
24	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Okay. Right.
25	(Laughter.) 45

1	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Right. And, Justice Breyer,
2	I have two answers for you. Number one is going the
3	first one is going to be about the facts of the case,
4	and the second is just going to be jurisprudential. The
5	first one is what more could one imagine in such an
6	opinion that you would ask Nike to do on a remand?
7	JUSTICE BREYER: I would ask Nike, I
8	suppose, Nike could say you know, I read the page 73
9	and you changed things at the rate of mile a minute, and
10	we looked at YUMS and Jelly Bean, and they're sort of
11	like our shoe, but we didn't think enough, but you did
12	think enough, and are some of these changes that could
13	happen at a mile a minute is there any reason to
14	think you know, that they won't look really colorably
15	even like what you just did, but nonetheless, is a
16	pretty good point that they might infringe our our
17	present trademark.
18	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Justice Breyer
19	JUSTICE BREYER: That's a long question, I
20	don't know if I'll get a good answer.
21	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Well, I hope you'll get a
22	good answer. The my point is this, Justice Breyer:
23	what you've just said on remand, what we would do is ask
24	a question. We wouldn't try to prove and anything. My
25	point is this: Already has told the district court, the 46

court of appeals, and this Court everything that it wants to say about its intentions.

3 It has had every opportunity in every court to have its lawyers simply say, Justice Sotomayor, this 4 5 is not an accident. The reason they are not saying that б they want to make a covenant of the -- a copy of the Air 7 Force 1 is that they don't want to make a copy of the Air Force 1. There is no reason in the world to send 8 9 this back to give -- ask Already, again, the question 10 that has been asked in three separate courts. 11 I said I had a jurisprudential --12 jurisprudential answer to you as well, and that is the 13 case was presented to you as presenting a question of 14 law, and that is, can you have a covenant not to sue that will end a case like this? 15 16 And if you tell the lower courts, we don't 17 know, you are doing, I think, not as much of a service to the development of the law as you could. It is a 18 19 much more sound approach, we think, to say Already had 20 the chance to build its record --21 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Goldstein, can you 22 inform us of when this practice of the unilateral 23 covenant in order to moot a -- a cancellation claim, 24 when -- how long has it been around?

25 MR. GOLDSTEIN: It is still -- it has been 47

1 around for at least 20 years. It is still not very common for the very important reason that trademark 2 3 owners know that, if they hand these things out, they 4 are at risk of having their mark invalidated; and 5 second, they know that it doesn't avoid a -- a б determination of the validity of the mark because a 7 party like Already can always go to the Federal agency, 8 the TTAB.

9 So I said I have some actual facts. And the 10 facts are these: Although Nike has a broad trademark 11 portfolio, it has only, once in its history, issued a 12 covenant not to sue. It is in this case.

13 JUSTICE KENNEDY: That's because it usually 14 sues. Page -- page 114 of the Joint Appendix says, "Your Honor, over the past eight months, Nike has 15 16 cleared out the worst offending infringers. Now, 17 Already remains as one of the last few companies that 18 was identified on that top ten list of infringers." 19 I mean, that -- that's your company's 20 policy. That's your attorney, I take it. 21 MR. GOLDSTEIN: We -- Justice Kennedy, we do 22 enforce our trademarks. You say we usually sue. I will 23 tell you that we have filed six trade dress actions in 24 the company's history.

25 Now, you had said, because I think it's the 48

1 other side's -- the impression the other side has given, 2 that we are getting a special advantage over them. I 3 think it's really important to recognize, for purposes 4 of standing doctrine and mootness doctrine, that of all 5 the shoe manufacturers in the country, the one that is б least likely to be injured by this trademark -- there is 7 only one. 8 And it is Already because they are the only 9 company in the entire world that has a promise that's substantial not to be sued under this trademark. We are 10 11 the one -- they are the ones that are least likely to 12 come into conflict with Nike. Now, they --13 JUSTICE KENNEDY: Well, but that's because 14 you gave them the covenant after you sued them. 15 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. Yes, that's right, but 16 we did give them the covenant. That's my point. After 17 the covenant -- we didn't merely withdraw the case. I 18 have one other piece of fact. 19 JUSTICE SCALIA: What -- what -- what's the consideration -- I used to teach contract law. 20 This is -- you know, you can just give a covenant like that? 21 22 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes, we're judicially It's not a contract. We are estopped, and 23 estopped. 24 they have -- the district court acted in reliance on it, construed it, and so we are bound by it. It's not a 25 49

1 contract.

I did have one other fact for you, because 2 3 the other side has given you this impression that, once 4 bitten, twice shy; that if you are sued once for a 5 trademark -- they have a special fear that they're in б the cross-hairs, that we're watching everything that 7 they do. So when they made this argument --8 JUSTICE KENNEDY: They are on the top ten 9 list of infringers. 10 (Laughter.) 11 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. They are on the top 12 ten list of infringers. But after that -- after that 13 they, and they alone, got a covenant not to be sued, under the -- they are the -- they are in the specially 14 protected position, not a specially disadvantaged 15 16 position. 17 I did, however -- when they made this argument in the reply brief -- tried to figure out if 18 that is true. Is it actually the case that a person who 19 20 is sued once has a legitimate worry that they will 21 actually be sued again? 22 So you should lower the -- the mootness or 23 standing bar still further. So we looked at every 24 single trademark action between 2000 -- January 1, 2000, and December 31, 2004, all of them. 25 There were 593. 50

1 And over the next eight years, we tried to figure out how many times did the plaintiff sue the defendant 2 3 again. It happened six times, so --4 JUSTICE BREYER: I see that. But I thought 5 your response to Justice Kennedy was a different one. I 6 liked it because it was that -- the concern that Nike 7 can go and find out the competitor's plans is true, but it exists whenever a -- a -- a manufacturer brings a 8 9 trademark infringement case because that manufacturer 10 has to show he is now making the product; or, if not, he 11 intends to. And if it's a question of intends to, then 12 the defendant can go and look and see if that's true. 13 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. 14 JUSTICE BREYER: And your response, I took 15 it, to that was there are procedures that deal with 16 that. They're called protective orders and so forth. 17 And so is that -- have I got that right with your 18 argument? 19 MR. GOLDSTEIN: You could not -- you could 20 not be more right. 21 JUSTICE BREYER: That's what your argument 22 is, yes. 23 MR. GOLDSTEIN: It's also the truth that --24 that it is what happens in every single patent and trademark invalidity case. If you believe that gives 25 51

1 rise to Article III injury, then every party has standing to challenge every competitor. 2 3 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Mr. Goldstein, what about Federal Rule 41(a)(2)? It says, if the defendant has 4 5 pleaded a counterclaim -- and you have recognized that б there was Article III jurisdiction over that 7 counterclaim -- the case may be dismissed on the plaintiff's request over the defendant's objection, only 8 9 if the counterclaim can remain pending for independent 10 adjudication. 11 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. 12 JUSTICE GINSBURG: So on the face of it, it 13 seems that this -- that that rule fits this case to a T; 14 that is, the -- plaintiff wants the case withdrawn, 15 defendant objects, and the question is can the 16 counterclaim remain pending for independent 17 adjudication. 18 MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes. I think the reason they did not pursue the Rule 41 argument in this Court 19 20 and abandoned it is that it's completely understood that, if the party that's instituting the claim says I'm 21 22 not going to pursue my case at all, there simply is no Article III jurisdiction. And so even without a Rule 41 23 dismissal, there is no case or controversy remaining in 24 the case. 25 52

1	The district court the court of appeals
2	might also have said, when it's dealt with this issue on
3	8(a) and 9(a) of the petition appendix, that they
4	actually acceded to the dismissal of our claims.
5	They're happy to have our claims gone. And you can't б	say, we'll take the dismissal of the sorry the
7	plaintiff's claim, but want to have the counterclaim
8	remaining.
9	JUSTICE KENNEDY: You you referred, just
10	in a fleeting way, to the fact that they can go to the
11	PTO and to the board?
12	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
13	JUSTICE KENNEDY: What about my question,
14	and I wasn't it was probably my fault
15	MR. GOLDSTEIN: No, I understand
16	JUSTICE KENNEDY: I didn't quite
17	understand the government's petition. Is the standing
18	burden any less after there is a an administrative
19	adjudication and you go to court for judicial review?
20	MR. GOLDSTEIN: The Chief Justice suggested
21	an argument that could be made. It is an argument that
22	we disagree with. We've looked at the cases. We think
23	that it's a point in their favor, Justice Kennedy, that,
24	while you can go to the TTAB, they wouldn't be able to
25	appeal to an Article III court. I think that's a point 53

1 in their favor.

A point in our favor, however, is this 2 3 notion of scarecrow trademarks hanging out there on the 4 fields is inaccurate because of the ability to go to the 5 TTAB in the first instance; they're experts. And б second, remember what I said to Justice Sotomayor, 7 anybody in this market can say we want to counterfeit 8 the Air Force 1 -- we just want to make a copy of it, 9 it's not complicated -- and they will have the right to bring a claim to invalidate the mark. So we can't leave 10 11 the trademark hanging out there.

12 I have kept trying to come back -- and if I 13 could, in my remaining time, to the understanding of the 14 lower courts about the record because I said, Justice 15 Breyer, I think it would be much better for you to 16 resolve the case because they had the opportunity to 17 build a record, the case came to you on two courts' 18 understanding of the record, and so if I could take you 19 back to 14(a) and 15(a) of the petition appendix? 20 JUSTICE GINSBURG: May I interject just one 21 thing that I would like you to clarify? Justice Breyer 22 started out by saying the standard comes from Friends of the Earth. Do you agree? Because, as I recall, your 23 24 brief doesn't -- doesn't even cite Friends of the Earth. 25 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That's not correct, Justice 54

Ginsburg. So on -- we do disagree because of the Court's decision in Deakins, that this a voluntary cessation case, but we accept for present purposes, so you don't think I'm fighting the hypothetical.

5 Assuming that voluntary cessation principles б apply, here's how they apply: When you not just dismiss 7 the case, but you grant the covenant not to sue, and the covenant not to sue says, I won't sue you over what 8 9 you're doing now or anything that I can imagine you doing in the future because you haven't told me anything 10 11 else, then you have ensured that the controversy can't 12 arise again, and you've met the Voluntary Cessation 13 Doctrine.

14 If, on the other hand, the other side comes 15 forward with a declaration from an officer or some other 16 form of proof that says, no, I'm worried I might do 17 something outside the covenant, I would definitely want 18 to make a counterfeit, then the case is going to go on.

But this case is not that hypothetical case. On 14(a), the first full paragraph, seven lines from the bottom, "Given the similarity of YUMS' designs to the '905 mark and the breadth of the covenant, it is hard to imagine a scenario that would potentially infringe the '905 mark and yet not fall under the covenant. YUMS has not asserted any intention to market any such shoe."

1	And then in footnote 5, on 15(a), "Given the
2	absence of record evidence that YUMS intends to make any
3	arguably infringing shoe that is not unambiguously
4	covered by the covenant, this hypothetical possibility
5	does not create a definite and concrete dispute."
6	That's how the case should be resolved. You
7	should say, yes, there can be other cases where the
8	covenant is too narrow; yes, there can be other cases
9	where someone does allege a desire to make a
10	counterfeit. Those are different cases. But do not, I
11	suggest to you, remand when the facts have already been
12	developed in this case.
13	If we lose on this record, we lose on this
14	record. But if we win on this record, we win on it
15	because the record has been built in this case and it is
16	settled.
17	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: You are saying that
18	you've met if we decide you bear the burden of proof,
19	you're saying, you you could live with that.
20	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Yes.
21	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: And your burden was met
22	by their submissions?
23	MR. GOLDSTEIN: Our burden was met by our
24	submission of the covenant, which dealt with every
25	product they're making and every colorable imitation in 56
	Alderson Reporting Company

1 the future of it. And when they didn't then come back and say, actually, we want to make something that might 2 3 be outside the covenant, then it was -- that's -- that's 4 when we won the case. 5 Thank you very much. 6 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel. 7 Mr. Dabney, you have four minutes remaining. REBUTTAL ARGUMENT OF JAMES W. DABNEY 8 9 ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER MR. DABNEY: Your Honor, the covenant --10 11 the -- the affidavits in this case were prepared about 12 five weeks after this completely unexpected development 13 in the middle of a hard-pressed litigation was made. And the position that the Petitioner made to 14 the district court was there is obviously subject matter 15 16 jurisdiction here, not just because of the Rule 41 17 point, but that you can't say, well, we have a case that raises these three issues. You could, say, enter a 18 19 single judgment right now, the plaintiff's claims are 20 waived because they've waived them, the trademark is invalid, and the registration was unlawfully issued and 21 22 should be granted. 23 Courts issue judgments on the basis of 24 alternative holdings all the time. And the only reason why we're even talking about this is that Judge Sullivan 25 57

1 bifurcated the proceedings so that we dealt with this one issue in isolation, and then the other thing came up 2 3 separately. So we said, we think there's a case right now, but if you doubt it, we request leave to amend our 4 5 counterclaim to assert claims for invalid procurement of б registration and other things that could have been 7 asserted. 8 So the -- the state of the record reflects 9 the -- the suddenness with which the -- the plaintiff most unexpectedly did what it now says, in public, it's 10 11 never done before and dropped its claim so unexpectedly 12 in the case. 13 So there's no question, but that if -- if it 14 turns out that it's not enough to say that we're 15 actively engaged, and we want to do all of the things 16 any person in a normal position would want to do, and we 17 have a concrete interest, the -- the defendant can certainly allege more than what it has been alleged. 18 The -- the --19 20 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: His challenge, you said to have a chance in three different courts to say 21 22 directly and unequivocally, if the mark is invalid, 23 we're going to imitate, and you haven't been willing to 24 do that. You --25 Your Honor, the Petitioner has MR. DABNEY: 58

1 been trying now for two and a half years to establish its right to do that. It was not our understanding 2 3 that, under the law, as it stood, that the -- in 4 addition to saying we have an enormous commercial 5 interest in doing this, and we are seeking the right to 6 do this since --7 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: What's your commercial 8 interest? 9 MR. DABNEY: The commercial interest is to partake of this very large and lucrative business that 10 11 the Respondent's evidence shows in this case. 12 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: So are you willing to 13 make the statement he's asked you for? You keep 14 equivocating on the answer. 15 I -- you know, it's like I don't want to say 16 it, is what you're telling us. 17 MR. DABNEY: I -- I think it is -- first of all, the -- the Petitioner, up until now, has said what 18 he said. I could stand here and say I believe that, if 19 20 the registration were cancelled, it is highly likely that the Petitioner would bring out a YUMS shoe. 21 22 JUSTICE BREYER: Okay. So, look, how are 23 you hurt then? Because suppose he wins here. Now, you, 24 if you have the president of the company say, hey, I'm going to do an exact copy, go bring a -- go bring a 25

1 cancellation action.

If you can't quite say that -- you know, you 2 3 can start one -- you can't quite say that, but he says 4 something sort of vague about it that's close, go to the 5 PTO. And if he can't say anything like that at all, б well, then, maybe you should lose. I mean, that's --7 that's -- what's the practical problem with that? 8 MR. DABNEY: The practical problem here is 9 that, in the procedural posture of this case, which is analogous to a summary judgment situation, all 10 11 inferences, all reasonable inferences need to be drawn 12 in favor of the nonmoving party. The suggestion that we 13 had the opportunity to develop the record is completely 14 incorrect. There wasn't even oral argument on this 15 16 motion. The district court never gave us any 17 opportunity to put in evidence, other than to come in and say, we have what we believe is a basis for 18 jurisdiction now, Rule 41(a)(2) precludes you from 19 dismissing our counterclaim, but if you think what we've 20 alleged now is not enough, we request leave to amend our 21 22 pleading. So to force us to start all over again in a 23 new suit is -- would be fundamentally unfair to the 24 Petitioner. And what we're seeking here is simply 25 judicial review. We're seeking the -- the ability to obtain extinguishment, not just of the particular claims that this Plaintiff saw fit to waive, but the much broader government-registered claim of right to exclude competition in the sale of shoes, and the fact that -б CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel. The case is submitted. MR. DABNEY: Thank you. (Whereupon, at 11:04 a.m., the case in the above-entitled matter was submitted.)

60
